

Career Investigator for Northwest Michigan

News & More - March 2023

Student Story: Shared by Amy Barritt, Director of the Kingsley Branch Library. "I've had a regular young, male patron coming after school to play online video games. We had talked about shared interests before, but not his goals and ambitions. One day, he said he had been thinking about video games as a career, but didn't know where to start figuring out how to make that happen. Thankfully, the Newton's Road Career Investigator was right there for us! The two of us spent a good half an hour playing with the Investigator, looking at all sorts of careers. It helped him consider things like industry growth, and quality of life issues like salary and being able to stay in Northern Michigan. It led him to think about how he should be preparing for college, and what types of classes he should be taking now. It was a perfect use of this tool, and I was amazed at how he was able to navigate and use the Career Investigator to its fullest potential with very little assistance. He wanted to keep exploring, so I set him up with a hotspot and device when Mom came to pick him up. Total win!"

School Story: Newton's Road shared our Career Investigator with students and staff at the recent Greenspire School Career Day. The Middle School teachers report that they are now incorporating the Career Investigator into their lesson plans. The Greenspire High School principal loves the tool and is excited about exploring ways to incorporate the Career Investigator within their project-based learning experiences.
